

Lauterpacht Linked

The Partnership Programme of the
Lauterpacht Centre for International Law

The Lauterpacht Linked Partnership Programme, launched in 2017, gives practitioners exclusive access to people, events and research associated with the Centre in exchange for their support.

With 39 Fellows and a community of Visiting Fellows from around the world, the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law is a leading centre of excellence in the field of international law.

Centre Fellows produce internationally leading and cutting-edge research in many areas of international law. They are globally recognised, tuned in with current affairs, and connected with governments, practitioners and scholars from all over the world.

Membership of the programme is open to law firms, barristers' chambers, foreign ministries and major companies with an interest in international law.

LCIL Partners financially support the Centre thereby contributing to the development of its research activities and physical infrastructure.

For further enquiries about the programme, please contact the Centre's Director and Whewell Professor of International Law, Professor Eyal Benvenisti on communications@lcil.cam.ac.uk.

Members of the Lauterpacht Centre Partnership Programme can expect to:

- receive invitations to Centre lectures and dinners
- enjoy exclusive networking opportunities
- build strong relations with LCIL Fellows working in their area of interest
- foster opportunities for collaboration in practice and in research
- meet promising graduate students
- nominate members of their organisation to become a practitioner in residence at the Centre for a term
- suggest executive education and training programmes for the Centre to organise in specific areas of international law
- be recognised on the Centre's website www.lcil.cam.ac.uk.
